ETAC Policy of Recognition for Overseas Programme

1. Upon receiving application from an overseas IHL to recognise its programme, ETAC will consider the application based upon the credibility and recognition of the accrediting body and accreditation system of the country of the IHL. ETAC will then decide based upon the following:
 - (a) Will entertain the request for accreditation of accrediting body.
 - (b) Will not entertain (not a normal case) the request for accreditation of individual programme.
2. If the country is a signatory member of the Sydney and Dublin Accords, ETAC will recognise the programme based upon the recognition given by the accrediting body of that particular country.
3. If the country is a provisional member of the Sydney and Dublin Accords, ETAC will recognise the programme on a case by case basis based upon the recognition given by the accrediting body of that particular country.
4. Upon the request of the government, ETAC may consider to recognise overseas university's engineering programme on case-to-case basis.
